Laptop use with High Power outdoor WiFi?

2020/02/11

I need to use a wifi-connected laptop on a vehicle around my property. I am considering a high power outdoor wifi bridge/access point. That part is easy to understand. My question has to do with laptop side of the connection. How does high power wifi work when the wifi connected laptop is still using the built-in hardware? Do the long ranges published by the manufacturers assume that all connected devices have special hardware, or is it really as simple as just getting a high power access point/router? Thanks in advance for your help.
